

RAYNER DEMANDS COURT FOR STEWART

Rayner, the late Senator Pinckney's brother, and the brother of William Pinckney, of Maryland. "It makes my blood boil to fever heat to hear the President announce such an outrage against any man. If the man is guilty, he should be convicted; if innocent, he should be acquitted; in any event he should be treated in a manner that is fair and just. Why is he being treated in this manner? Because he got into a quarrel with a plumber. Quarrel with a plumber, indeed! How many quarrels do you suppose the President has had with plumbers and everybody else? Suppose the President should be sent to a place like that for every quarrel he gets into? Why, this man has initiated the President, and he is being punished for it. I suppose he had some advice on the subject. The Attorney-General may have whispered into the President's ear that he had the right to inflict punishment on this officer. "Hardly that, though, for I suppose the Attorney-General and all the rest of his advisers say to the President just what he wants them to say."

In Great Discomfort. Mr. Rayner then read a letter from Colonel Stewart, in which he declared that for four months he had had no companionship except that of a parrot and a teamster, and the former an invalid; that the building in which he lived was not heated properly; that there was no water; that there were no sanitary conveniences. "The President says he is above the law in this matter," continued Mr. Rayner. "I say that he is mistaken, and that he is subject to every law and regulation Congress can pass." He proceeded to quote a large number of authorities, drawing from them the inference that Colonel Stewart was entitled to a trial, even though in the army.

Mr. Rayner's remarks were applauded by the galleries. Mr. Rayner asked to call his resolution up tomorrow for action by the Senate. Mr. Warren indicated that he desired to have it referred to the Committee on Military Affairs. In order that the President's letter might be regarded as before the Senate, it was read in full. It covers nine typewritten pages, and for the most part is a review of Colonel Stewart's quarrels with officers under him and with citizens in the neighborhood of posts where he has been assigned. His conduct is condemned by the President in the severest language, as unfitting him for any command, particularly for the rank of brigadier-general, which the President declared to be Stewart's desire. The President calls Stewart a "nuisance." The letter also deals with the several questions involved and with the various matters quoted in part by Mr. Rayner.

HIS HEART NEEDS BLOOD.
But Nobody Is Willing to Supply It, Not Even His Assistant.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., May 12.—Manny Carter, a negro youth, lies in the University Hospital in a precarious condition from a stab wound inflicted by Ben Staples, another negro of about the same age. Staples is in jail awaiting the result of the wound, which is said to be mortal. The two negroes quarreled over one cent and a set of dice. Staples became infuriated and stabbed his opponent in the heart with a pocket knife. The blade made an incision in the heart about an inch long, and Carter nearly died to death before the wound could be stitched up at the University Hospital, where he was hurriedly carried by witnesses of the affray.

Every effort was made by the hospital authorities to get some person to supply enough blood to partially offset what had been lost, but no one volunteered for the operation. An effort was made to secure from the Commonwealth the attention of permission to carry Staples back to the hospital to supply the life-giving fluid, but the negro manifested no enthusiasm to repair what his anger had led him to waste. Carter is still alive, despite the fact that his heart is performing its functions under the disadvantage of several stitches.

GREAT INTEREST IN REPORT.
Some Statements in Mr. Boudar's Report Create Surprise.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
BOYDTON, Va., May 12.—The Times-Dispatch containing Mr. Boudar's report on the affairs of the Bank of Mecklenburg caused great interest here to-day. The report has been closely read, and some of its statements were a surprise to many people. The indebtedness of Coghill is larger than was generally believed. There is no unusual excitement here, however, as the creditors have been prepared for the worst for two or three weeks. The two cashiers, Overby and Haskins, are both here, and have doubtless read the accountants' report. The Commonwealth's attorney of Mecklenburg has received no official information as to the result of Mr. Boudar's examination of the bank's accounts. The whole matter is in the hands of the Circuit Court.

The expert's report has not been read generally in the country yet, and when read will cause considerable interest among the depositors.

Ben Greer at Williamsburg.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
WILLIAMSBURG, Va., May 12.—Ben Greer and his clever associates gave the Shakespearean productions here this afternoon and to-night, and to-night, a delightful audience. The campus of William and Mary gave a beautiful setting for the plays. "As You Like It" was presented last afternoon and "Twelfth Night" to-night.

HER LIFE RESTORED BY PRAYERS OF HUSBAND

MARY CORDELIA BENT SABIN, restored to life by her husband's prayers.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 12.—That Mrs. Mary Cordelia Bent Sabin, vice-president of the Evangelical Christian Science Church, who died May 6th, actually expired three weeks before the world knew it, said Bishop Sabin, who is to-day broken-hearted over the death of his wife. "She died. There was no breathing. I got down on my knees and lifted my voice to God to restore her to me. I needed her. She was my other self, and I prayed day and night to God not to take her away. The Giver of all good heard my prayer. She was returned. She did breathe and talk, but she wanted to die."

Here Bishop Sabin, a man about sixty years old, broke down completely. His big brown eyes filled with tears, his form shook, and he bore out his own statement: "I am a broken-hearted man."

Mind Created Her Cancer.
Mrs. Sabin died from cancer. Bishop Sabin said to-day that she created the cancer by concentrating her mind on it. He said she told him many years ago that she believed she would die from cancer, although at that time she was not suffering and had no symptoms of cancer.

"Man created what he wants," said Bishop Sabin. "Thought is the great creator. My wife—or rather my other self—thought of cancer. She died from cancer. She took a morbid view of life, but she lived as a saint. She was second only to an angel in sweetness, amiability and goodness. She often told me she wanted to die because of the iniquity and perversity of the world. I knew everything that went on in her mind, at least, I believed I did, but she kept this one single thought on cancer from me, and now she has been taken away. In all my philosophy I cannot find any good that has been done by her death."

For eighteen months Bishop Sabin was identified with the followers of Mrs. Eddy, but ten years ago he established the church over which he now presides. Said Bishop Sabin: "We believe God cures. We are convinced that illness can be healed through the efficacy of prayer, but we also believe in medicine and surgery."

ARROW KILLS A GIRL.
Shaft Shot by Boys at Play Pierces Her Brain.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Peter Gamboza, nine years old, was playing with several other little boys, shooting umbrellas like arrows from bows in East New York to-night. An arrow from his bow hit Mary O'Connell, nine years old, in the head as she came around a street corner.

She dodged several of the arrows, but one, alleged to be from Peter's bow, struck her squarely behind the ear and stuck there. The little girl fell to the pavement unconscious. The arrow had pierced the brain and the girl died soon afterward.

MADE WOMAN ALMOST BLIND.
One of the Most Brutal Assaults Known in Albemarle.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., May 12.—Fanny Bond, a negro woman, lies in the University Hospital almost blind, and will certainly lose the sight of one eye as the result of one of the most brutal assaults if her account can be believed, that ever occurred in Albemarle county.

The Bond woman was a servant in the family of Mr. Charles H. Price, of Mechanics River, and was brought to the hospital suffering from what the authorities believe was carbolic acid burns. She told a story, which resulted in the arrest of Doc Mansfield, J. F. Stuart and Ed. Key, three young negro men, who were sent out to the grand jury, charged with the assault. Last Monday the men were sent back to Magistrate Charles Jones, of Crozet, who fined Key and Mansfield $40 each, and dismissed the case against Stuart. The Bond woman, as she appears at the hospital, seems partly imbecile, and the hospital authorities say she has been incoherent at intervals ever since her arrival there, and while her mind may have been affected by the terrible experience, they are of the opinion that she is mentally unbalanced and irresponsible. Her stories have never agreed in any single particular, and Commonwealth's Attorney Woods, in view of the conflicting evidence, permitted the case to go back to the magistrate's court for settlement.

A LADY, A TACK, A DIPLOMAT.
Mrs. Longworth Drops Bit of Metal in Sent and Laughs at What Follows.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Mrs. Longworth desired her husband to accompany her to the dedication exercises of the Bureau of American Republics Building and drove up to the Capitol for him in her new automobile to-day. She had to wait for some time for her husband, who was in the House. Nick thought it safe to leave the House to Uncle Joe and the Democrats, so she sat alone in the executive gallery, the observed of all observers.

Not being greatly interested in a colloquy between John Wesley Gaines and James Mann, she turned her back about the gallery and behind a tack. She picked it up and started to throw it over the railing, but her raised arm dropped. Instead, she thrust her hand through the iron railing separating the diplomatic and executive galleries and dropped it in a seat.

Presently a tall, Russian-looking person, with long Van Dyke beard, frock coat, silk hat and spats, appeared. After surveying the vacant seat for a few seconds Mr. Diplomat walked over and dropped into the one where the tack reposed.

"Wow! Mon Dieu! Wow! Wow!" he shrieked, as he sprang and pawed the air. Then he alighted astride a seat in front of him, his silk hat flying to the rear. He picked himself up, uttered invectives which only he could understand, and started for the door. As he did so he glanced hastily over at the lone lady in the executive gallery, and his anger was not appeased on seeing that she was almost doubled in a fit of laughter.

CANVASS PROGRESSING WELL.
Workers, Confident of Getting Y. M. C. A. Fund in Good Time.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
NORFOLK, Va., May 12.—The canvass for funds for the erection of a new Y. M. C. A. building in Norfolk is progressing rapidly, and the leaders are now confident that the entire amount will be raised by the close of the campaign, May 25th.

To-day at noon the reports of the teams carried the total amount of subscriptions to $56,856, and there is every indication that the close of the week will see the $100,000 mark reached. The teams are enthusiastically working, and report that they are being met with generous responses.

Several of the moneyed men of the city are yet to indicate the amount they are going to give to the institution, and it is believed that when these subscriptions are ready to be announced that the total will leap forward at an astonishing rate. Teams are being urged not to hold back subscriptions, but to give them out to the public, in order to secure the benefit of the enthusiasm created early in the canvass.

LOOK TO LOCAL OPTION.
Addresses before Antislavery League Meeting Indicate a Fight.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
LYNCHBURG, Va., May 12.—At Centenary Methodist Church to-night about 250 persons attended a mass-meeting held to start a movement for the organization of an antislavery league in this city. The meeting was addressed by Dr. R. H. Bennett, pastor of Court Street Methodist Church, and ex-State Senator A. F. Thomas, a resident of the county.

The plan outlined in these addresses in event of a local option election during the year is that the present licenses shall expire before prohibition should become effective, should the drys be victorious. It is not known when the league will be formed.

she walked right up against the spiders and made them bite the dust. When that football team, with Coach Warren, arrived in Ashland, a record-breaking "call-thump" was proposed, and every store box and piece of timber available was used in one huge bonfire, while speeches were made by the team, coach and professors. Just double this demonstration of last fall, and it will be possible to have an idea of the kind of "callthump" the Randolph-Macon boys pulled off last night. Yesterday's game was no doubt the worst defeat that Randolph-Macon ever gave the Richmond College, for the spiders were so sure of winning that they forced the Yellow Jackets to play the game as one deciding the championship between them.

Randolph-Macon has challenged William and Mary College to a final contest to decide the championship for the Eastern division. If she refuses to play, the coveted cup belongs to the Jackets from Ashland.
